It is hard to believe that we are at the end of another term. Thank you once again for all your support with Home Learning. We are very blessed as a school that you value the importance of working together for the benefit of the children, their education and well-being. We appreciate that Home Learning is a challenge and a different way for your children to engage but engage you have! My staff and I hope that you have enjoyed all the different approaches to the home learning that they have set you. We are hoping, like you, I am sure, for the time that we return together and hopefully it is not too far away. Some of the children in school have written messages on hearts hanging outside school for you to enjoy when you are on your daily exercise. Keep safe.

In the meantime, in celebration of our Home Learning to date here is a snap shot of the wonderful things you and the children have all been doing:

Keeping safe online

This week all children had a chance to become involved in Safer Internet Day. Lots of them did some very responsible home learning on the topic of keeping safe on line. Below are a reminder of some of the sites you can visit to support keeping your children safe on line. There are others on our website also to help you at a time when many children are using online learning.

Teachers, you may not be,
But as Home Learners you are top of the tree!
Not maths again you hear them say...
No English please for today...
Oh No! You may hear a scream and shout
But learning starts and laptops are out!
Videos are posted with such pride
With loved ones at their side,
Then there's the evening when they're tucked up in bed
You might reflect (with a glass!) on what's going on in their head...
The work and times spent, will be treasured forever
As one day, we all realise, we were in this together!
Guard the faith and grasp the hope
You've all shown how well you can cope!
Have a super half term,
Mrs Neveu
